

Red and yellow and blue ~ Oh My!

Coming home should be like opening the door to Oz.

No one—not even Dorothy—wants to live in a black-and-white (or boring brown!) world. Neutrality is only a good idea in Switzerland! (And not even there when it comes to designing and decorating living spaces.)

Color enlivens. It transports you to a different place and state of mind. It soothes, energizes and refreshes.

With its high-quality, fresh and colorful interpretations of classical furniture styles, Somerset Bay is challenging designers and homeowners to use color in new ways and in unexpected combinations. The approach is more tidal wave than splash.

Blue, green, yellow, black, orange, red, black and white can coexist in the same home—in the same room, even.

Somerset Bay shows you how. Just peak behind the curtain...

Durango Console

With its turned legs and antiqued hardware, the Durango Console (SB185) is perfectly scaled and sized to sit beneath a window or behind a sofa. The console is shown here in Jelly Bean Green, but it's available in any of Somerset Bay's 17 custom hand finishes.

Catskill Cocktail Table

Folly Beach Cabinet

Combine a little traditional West Indies design with a coastal color palette, and you get this sweet Folly Beach Cabinet (SB181) from Somerset Bay. The two-door cabinet is finished in a delectable aqua hue called Cotton Candy.

Sagamore Console

The Sagamore Console (SB188) exemplifies Somerset Bay's talent for revitalizing and interpreting traditional furniture in a fashion-forward way. The legs and the feet of the table reflect William and Mary styling, but the detailing on the stretcher keeps the piece from being labeled traditional. The stretcher is formed from a trio of interlocking rings and a pair of half circles.

Double Pedestal Killington Dining Table

At 102 inches, the Double Pedestal Killington Dining Table (SB186) is fit for a feast and a crowd. But there's no need to sacrifice style for serving space. The bright-white Powdered Sugar finish lends a feeling of airiness to this large table.

Greenwich Cupboard

Just because you're all grown up doesn't mean you can't enjoy the whimsy of a dollhouse. The Greenwich Cupboard (SB182) was inspired by a precious antique. It's equally at home in a child's bedroom or an adult living space. The cupboard, shown in buttery-toned Crème Brûlée, is the epitome of a conversation piece.
